New Book Challenges Office Taboos of Sex, Politics and Religion

Auberry Press is pleased to announce the release of galley copies of Sex, Politics & Religion at the Office: The New Competitive Advantage by John F. Boogaert and Douglas E. Noll.

Intentionally or not, employment laws are strangling creativity and professional satisfaction in the American workplace. Fueled by fear, frustration and costly litigation over unproductive attitudes towards sex, politics and religion, corporate leaders are, however, missing a powerful opportunity. In their new book, Boogaert & Noll reveal how sex, politics and religion can be transformed into a decisive, sustainable, competitive advantage.

Boogaert and Noll asked, "Who wouldn't want to work for a sexy, powerful company driven by great values? Why is the new workforce turning its back on repressive corporate cultures? What are the secrets of creating a dynamic corporate environment that attracts and retains the best and brightest?"

In Sex, Politics & Religion at the Office: The New Competitive Advantage, Boogaert & Noll answer these questions by showing how healthy and appropriate attitudes towards sexuality, politics, power, justice, values and religion are vital to highly productive, satisfying and profitable enterprises. Their principles, equally applicable in government, non-profit, education and corporate settings, are derived from real life examples taken from 30 years of business and legal experience.

John F. Boogaert, author of No Feet in Concrete: Leadership in an Entrepreneurial World, a distinguished corporate leader and keynote speaker, and Douglas E. Noll, Esq., a lawyer, mediator, peacemaker, and author of Peacemaking: Practicing at the Intersection of Law and Human Conflict, have combined their business and legal insights to develop this new perspective on the American workplace.
